

Managed IT Services Company New Jersey

Five benefits of using CATS Technology, a New Jersey, New York-based managed IT Provider

Number one — enjoy more uptime.

Software patching and proactive maintenance contributes to keeping IT systems faster and more stable. A faster, more stable network means happier employees.

Speaking of employees, number two — an entire workforce without the employee hassles.

Why settle for a single employee when you can get a whole team for the same price? Plus, you won't have to deal with the employment tax hassles or even the employee benefits.

Number three — keep your business safe.

Managed IT Service providers, like New York, New Jersey-based CATS Technology, protect your data with backup and disaster recovery solutions. 70 % of small firms that experience a major data loss will go out of business within a year. Use a managed IT service provider and don't be a statistic.

Number four — focus on what's most important. With a managed IT service provider you can rest easy knowing that you have a team to take care of computer, network and other technology issues. This frees up resources to focus on growing your business. Focus on what's most important — we'll handle the technology.

Number five – simplify support issues.

Many businesses deal with multiple technology vendors. When something goes wrong, your staff may struggle to find the right people to call. Managed IT service providers give you one point of contact to handle all of your issues.

In short, if you're looking to hire a managed IT service provider in the New Jersey or New York areas or beyond, consider CATS Technology which can help you have more productive employees, save you money and help you stay ahead of technology issues.

To find out more about how New York, New Jersey-based CATS Technology can help your business solve IT problems before they become problems, call us in New Jersey or visit our website.